

DIED BESIDE HIS WHEEL.

AN ELDERLY MAN STRICKEN WITH APOPLEXY
ON A RIDE UP THE BOULEVARD.

Henry F. Thorn, sixty-eight years old, a retired baker, started out at 9 o'clock yesterday morning from his home, at No. 15 West Eighty-fourth-st., to ride on his bicycle to the home of his brothers. Before starting he said that he never felt better in his life. In twenty minutes he halted at No. 822 Boulevard to oil his wheel, and while doing so fell over, stricken with apoplexy. He died in a few minutes after the attack. Mr. Thorn lived with his wife and three grown daughters. He had made a comfortable fortune in a bakery at Atlantic-ave. and Henry-st., Brooklyn, and about eight years ago retired. He had a stroke of paralysis about ten years ago, from which he had entirely recovered. Two weeks ago he got a cold, from which he had also recovered, and for the first time since that illness had started yesterday morning for a ride on his bicycle.

He was to go to the home of his brothers, William, John and Thomas, at Davidson-ave. and Kingsbridge Road. Mr. Thorn rode to the Boulevard, and had not got as far as No. 822, the home of Dr. Charles E. McDonald, when he thought the machine needed oiling. He stopped, and while doing so lost his balance again on the curbstone. Dr. McDonald was looking out of his window at the time, and he saw Mr. Thorn. As the latter was about to apply the oil he let the gun down, and Dr. McDonald, who threw him through his hands and then fell to the ground.

The physician rushed out, taking the first to reach the side of Mr. Thorn, and found him unconscious. The physician then removed and tried to do something for him, but Thorn died almost in a moment after the doctor reached him.

Dr. McDonald said that the wheel had died from apoplexy. He thought that the wheel had had nothing to do with the stroke, though it was possible that he might have overexerted himself.

A stroke of apoplexy, however, may occur at any time, even when a person was most quiet.

INSURANCE COMPANIES IN LITIGATION.

An attachment for $100,000 was obtained yesterday by Bernard S. McKeon, Jr., as receiver of the United Life Insurance Association, against the National Life Association. It was alleged that on August 1, 1896, the officers of the United Life Insurance Association, without consideration, executed in the National Life Association a pretended transfer of the list of policy-holders of the United Life Insurance Company, which good-will of the business. A dispensation was also filed yesterday by Campbell & Hancock on the rights of the National Life Association to property in Park Row, near Amstel.
